Wild Horse Aviation and Rower Airshows Team Up

Buck Roetman of Wild Horse Aviation and Gary Rower of Rower Airshows have teamed up for select shows this summer to debut their exciting new Eagle/Stearman formation act. Buck brings the nimble performance of modern designs to the show while Gary and the Stearman bring the grace and power of the Golden Age of Aviation. The aircraft are separated by nearly a half century in design, construction, and performance yet Buck and Gary bring the two aircraft together in a formation routine that will thrill audiences and amaze their fellow pilots.

The Eagle outperforms the Stearman in acceleration, roll, climb and just about everything except pulling power. The Stearman's 450 HP radial, swinging a nine foot prop, will pull down a barn and sure enough drags the bigger biplane over the top leaving the Eagle begging for more power. Meanwhile coming down the backside of a loop, the Eagle accelerates leaving the Stearman in its dust. Keeping the two beautifully different aircraft together is a formidable task that takes incredible skill, coordination and timing. Check out their schedules to find out where you can see the finest dissimilar formation show in North America.
